

Health Education England

Notes

I am creating an example of how I feel we should tidy up the UI for Admin, some screens will have a large amount of content for the user to absorb. It would make sense to break this content into the relevant areas making it easier for the user to digest. I have used the basis of Form R-b from previous designs, reversing the negative space, so that the UI is not compromised when tables are displayed. The style will only apply to Form areas of admin but not the Form R-b content. This is standalone to the system UI pattern, and has a different UI style, an example of this at the end of this document.

Admin UI: People - Personal Details example

This is an example of how the page should be broken into content areas. I have also highlighted the Mandatory and Optional fields (Refer to relevant the document for the rules for this).

Update

Removing a programme in Person record - Example of feedback

This is an exemplar of how the user receives feedback when they try to remove an item from TIS. This process and interaction should be consistent throughout the system and removing any item.
